IRELAND SUMMER SCHOOL

BROADEN YOUR CAREER HORIZONS

CHANGING FACE OF INTERNATIONAL TERTIARY EDUCATION

In today's highly competitive and globalised marketplace, students need not only to ensure that they secure a good performance in their School exiting examinations, that they choose a relevant degree programme and a well-regarded University if they aspire to work with high paying global corporates, they also need to show experience of transnational education and a capacity to work in diverse work environments.

We live in a fast-moving world of greater opportunities with more Universities and more graduates on the planet than ever before. Such developments have led to more intense competition for the best jobs. In the globalised world it is essential for students to have a transcontinental learning experience. Accra Business School, as Ghana's most globalised HEI with partnerships with a UK, Irish and a US University, is delighted to offer senior school students the opportunity to study for two weeks in Dublin, Ireland this summer as part of its embedded transnational learning experience.

CONCEPT

The purpose of the summer school is to provide you with a short but intense Irish & Western orientated, stimulating programme which will widen your career horizons, give you an insight into University level education in Ireland and the United Kingdom, provide you with experience of a transnational education opportunity and with classes to better prepare you for being able to bridge the gap between school and University.

It will also give you an opportunity to enjoy the key sights of Dublin, learn about another country and enjoy the opportunity to meet and mix with other international students of similar ages in a range of fun activities.

It is a mix of learning and tourism with the mornings devoted to study and career briefing sessions about which degree course to study at University, which international country to study in etc; and the afternoons and evenings to tourism and recreational activities.

IRISH PARTNER

The programme is offered in conjunction with the City Education Group of Ireland who are one of the largest private sector providers of education and professional training in Ireland (www.citygroup.ie) and is based at their prestige high school Ashfield College at Dundrum in the suburbs of Dublin. The CEO of City Education Group is Philip Burke LLB, Barrister is a member of the Accra Business School Governing Council.
